

Q: Is it acceptable to mix TIA polarity types A, B and C?

A: “In very specific circumstances where extension of trunk cables or modification of the link is required, mixing of methods can help. However, as each polarity method is unique, mixing method-specific products can result in major issues with proper transmit and receive lanes, as well as channel assignments” (<http://www.leviton.com>).

